During prohibition, when people continued to consume alcohol despite its banning, law officials got frustrated and decided to try a different kind of deterrent: death. They ordered the poisoning of industrial alcohols manufactured in the U.S., which were products regularly stolen by bootleggers. By the end of Prohibition in 1933, the federal poisoning program is estimated to have killed at least 10,000 people.

You don't need a driver's license to compete in NASCAR.
Technically, a state's driver's license is not needed to compete in NASCAR. Even drivers who have had their actual driver licenses suspended for everything from reckless driving to DUIs were still able to race in NASCAR.

Lake Champlain, located primarily in Vermont with parts in New York and Quebec, isn't as big as the Great Lakes, but it does have its own monster according to legends. Champ is said to be friendly, 20 to 80 feet long, and have a head like either a snake or a dog. The most famous photo of him was taken back in 1977.

In 1968, Vermont legislators decided to enact a state-wide ban on the installation of billboards. The authorities implemented this change to preserve the state's natural beauty. The ban helped boost tourism. Vermont became the second state to ban billboards, Hawaii was first state in the 1920's. Maine followed in the 1980's and Alaska in 1998.

He who hears the rippling of rivers will not utterly despair of anything.
